PROPOSED RESOLUTION

DECLARING THE FOREST PRESERVES OF COOK COUNTY'S SUPPORT OF THE INSTITUTE OF MUSEUM AND LIBRARY SERVICES AND BROOKFIELD ZOO CHICAGO

WHEREAS, the Institute of Museum and Library Services (IMLS) was established by the Museum and Library Services Act (MLSA) on September 30, 1996; and

WHEREAS, as a federal agency that administers discretionary programs, IMLS is funded through the annual federal appropriations process; and

WHEREAS, with its budget, IMLS supports a vast range of museums, including art, history, natural history, nature centers, botanical gardens, and zoos; and

WHEREAS, IMLS provides essential funding and guidance for the vast collections of museums across America, acting as community anchors, supporting youth and senior citizens, serving people with disabilities, and helping veterans heal; and

WHEREAS, beyond education, museums, zoos, aquariums, and libraries are economic engines, providing jobs, driving tourism, and serving as community cornerstones; and

WHEREAS, in 2024, IMLS awarded $11,347,695 in grants to Illinois institutions, with $3,214,842 awarded specifically for museum services; and

WHEREAS, we in Illinois have seen the great benefit this IMLS funding has on our local community as it has supported groundbreaking programs at Brookfield Zoo Chicago, including local community engagement initiatives, profound international research studies, and internal accessibility endeavors; and

WHEREAS, more than 180 million people visit United States zoos and aquariums each year, contributing more than $22.5 billion to the American economy, with Brookfield Zoo Chicago welcoming 2 million of those visitors annually; and

WHEREAS, for decades, IMLS has played a critical role in advancing the capabilities of zoos and aquariums by funding foundational research on their importance to conservation, supporting the creation of a nationwide network of early childhood nature play programs, and enabling groundbreaking multi-institutional welfare studies for species like elephants and dolphins, backing cutting-edge research in reproductive technologies to enhance population sustainability, and promoting greater accessibility in zoos and aquariums for staff, volunteers, and visitors of all abilities; and

WHEREAS, museums cannot do this vital work without the support and funding they receive from agencies like IMLS; and

WHEREAS, support for museums is overwhelmingly popular, with 96% of Americans saying they would approve of lawmakers who act to support museums and 96% of Americans saying they want to maintain or increase federal funding for museums; and

WHEREAS, on March 14, 2025, the Trump Administration issued Executive Order 14238, ‘Continuing the Reduction of the Federal Bureaucracy’ which directs that, among other agencies, the IMLS’s “non-statutory components and functions...shall be eliminated to the maximum extent consistent with applicable law, and...shall reduce the performance of their statutory functions and associated personnel to the minimum presence and function required by law”; and

WHEREAS, IMLS’s impact and support for Brookfield Zoo Chicago cannot be overstated, with the Brookfield Zoo being awarded over $1.5 million in programs and grants from IMLS over the last 5 years; and

WHEREAS, these grants have been directed towards supporting the Zoo’s impactful programs and projects focusing on animal welfare, accessibility, and education; and

WHEREAS, as a result of the Administration’s gutting of IMLS, Brookfield Zoo Chicago was notified of the termination of several grant-funded programs; and

WHEREAS, this included Grant MA-251511-OMS-22, ‘Behavioral Diversity as a Potential Positive Indicator of Welfare’, a project that was designed to help animal care staff at accredited zoos and aquariums across the United States evaluate positive animal welfare, focusing on continuous improvement in animal care and management; and

WHEREAS, under this program, the Zoo would develop lists of behaviors across animal species, train researchers to observe the varieties of behaviors exhibited by each animal, and use chemical analyses to determine the relationships between various behaviors and stress hormones, with a goal of providing a new tool for monitoring animal welfare to be shared with institutions across the nation; and

WHEREAS, Brookfield Zoo Chicago also received termination notice for Grant MG-249218-OMS-2, ‘The Zoo and Aquarium Radiology Database: A collaborative resource to advance veterinary care’ that addresses a continuous challenge veterinarians face in the evaluation of health and disease in wild animals - the lack of adequate and freely available veterinary images such as x-rays, ultrasound, and CT scans for reference from healthy animals; and

WHEREAS, this project would establish the Zoo and Aquarium Radiology Database, the first and only free centralized database site for radiology images from zoo animals, which would enable further disease research and evaluation of population health, supporting the continued stewardship of living collections and species sustainability in the wild; and

WHEREAS, under these two grants, animal care staff can focus on enhancing animal welfare resulting in visitors experiencing healthy, engaged animals, elevating their overall zoo experience which in turn can lead to increased visitation by satisfied customers, continuing to bolster local economic growth within communities around zoos and aquariums across the United States; and

WHEREAS, IMLS has since notified Brookfield Zoo Chicago of the reinstatement of these grants in accordance with a Preliminary Injunction Order under State of Rhode Island, et al. v. Trump et al., but notes that a pending appeal may affect the reinstatement of the grants in the future; and

WHEREAS, the permanent gutting of IMLS would be a huge blow for zoo and museum innovation and local community services and engagement; and

WHEREAS, protecting this essential agency is critical to preserving the vital role museums, libraries, zoos, and aquariums play in education, the economy, and community infrastructure across the country and in our own local communities; and

WHEREAS, though the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia granted a temporary restraining order to block the Trump Administration's dismantling of IMLS on May 1, 2025, it remains crucial that we continue to uplift our support for IMLS, the work it does nationally, and its impact here in Cook County through Brookfield Zoo Chicago;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the Forest Preserves of Cook County Board of Commissioners does hereby declare its unwavering support for the Institute of Museum and Library Services and all the amazing work it does here in Cook County, including its work with the Brookfield Zoo Chicago; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the Forest Preserves of Cook County Board of Commissioners expresses its strong concern over plans to defund the Institute of Museum and Library Services or any other such agencies, programs, or departments who have been legally allocated their due federal funding.
