Summary: The Forest Preserves has solicited a contract for hay farming at the Plum Creek preserves near Sauk Village in southeast Cook County. This property was historically used for agricultural purposes prior to acquisition by the Forest Preserves, and as such, does not exist in an ecologically natural state. The vendor will have use of the property for cutting and collection of hay. This practice allows the Forest Preserves to generate revenue, while at the same time providing habitat for grassland birds and preventing invasive plant species from overtaking fallow land. It is the Forest Preserves' intention to restore fallow land as capacity and funding allows, and these interim farming practices are a good method to keep lands in a more manageable condition until a restoration project can take place, thereby reducing future restoration costs. The contract term for hay cutting is a period of five (5) months, with three (3) one-year mutual renewal options to be exercised by the General Superintendent or their designee, which allows the Forest Preserves the option to discontinue farming practices at our discretion in order to restore these lands to a natural condition.

Timberland Ranch was the sole bidder for the Plum Creek hay site, for a total potential revenue generation over approximately three and a half years of $3,400.00.
